EMOTIONAL NEEDS QUESTIONNAIRE

For the Four Gifts of Love® Class

Copyright © 1986, 2017 by Willard F. Harley, Jr.

Name _____ Date _____

This questionnaire is designed to help you determine your most important emotional needs in section A and indicate your satisfaction with how those needs are currently being met by your partner (fiancé or spouse) in section B. Answer all the questions as candidly as possible. Do not try to minimize any needs that you feel have been unmet. If your answers require more space use and attach a separate sheet of paper.

Your partner should complete a separate Emotional Needs Questionnaire so that you can discover his or her needs and evaluate your effectiveness in meeting those needs.

When you have completed this questionnaire, go through it a second time to be certain your answers accurately reflect your feelings. Do not erase your original answers, but cross them out lightly so that your partner can see the corrections and discuss them with you.

The final page of this questionnaire asks you to identify and rank your top five needs in order of their importance to you based upon your current situation. The most important emotional needs are those that give you the most pleasure when met and frustration when unmet. Resist the temptation to identify as most important only those needs that your partner is not presently meeting. Include all your emotional needs in your consideration of those that are most important.

You have the permission of the publisher to photocopy the questionnaire for use in your own marriage.

In the space provided before each need, write a number from 1 to 5 that ranks the current needs most important to your happiness. Write a 1 before the most important need, a 2 before the next most important, and so on until you have ranked your five most important emotional needs.

To help you rank these needs, imagine that you will have only one need met. Which would make you the happiest, knowing that all the others would go unmet? That need should be 1. If only two needs will be met, what would your second selection be? Which five needs, when met, would make you the happiest?
